6th Grade Social Studies Ancient Civilization

Class Description: The 6th grade curriculum is focused to expand students' understanding of history by studying the people and events that directly formed ancient civilizations, including: early hominids, Sumer, Mesopotamia, Egypt, India, China, Greece and Rome. Through the lens of everyday people, students will explore the everyday lives, problems, and accomplishments, their role in developing social, economic, and political structures, as well as in establishing and spreading ideas that helped transform the world. Students will develop higher levels of critical thinking by considering why civilizations developed, where and when they did, why they became dominant, and why they declined.

Class goals: We will be using a combination of methods to explore history in depth, focusing on the concepts and facts in a meaningful, captivating, and entertaining way. The students will develop reading comprehension skills with expository text, formal reasoning, note-taking, research, collaborative work, oral presentations, technology-based projects, highlighting, outlining, concept mapping (graphic organizers), current events, debates, and simulations. Students are expected to complete assigned work on a timely basis and ask questions when necessary.

Humans are subjective, therefore history is often told from the viewpoints of those in power, or the victors.. What I hope to instill in the students is the search for other viewpoints, such as: What about the victims? What about the women? What about the indigenous peoples? Biases are inevitable, but we must also seek out those other stories that should be told. We need to explore many different perspectives and points of view. The class will explore primary documents in a quest to analyze those points of view.

There are high expectations for every student in this class. Organization is a priority and a skill that we will develop and nurture while exploring history.

Textbooks, Materials, and Spiral Portfolio:

- Electronic textbook: This class will utilize an electronic version of the TCi textbook, History Alive!: The Ancient World. Students will be able to access this in the classroom and at home using their Chromebooks.

Your student can sign in to his/her subscription by going to https://student.teachtci.com/student/sign_in and entering his/her computerlogin and password.

- Materials: All students will need the following:
 - Notebook
 - Folder
 - Post-It notes
 - Earbuds or headphones for use with Chromebooks
- ★ Students will be required to bring their spiral to class each day as this will work as their portfolio for the duration of the class. They are expected to maintain a neatly organized spiral, as it will be filled with all of their classwork.

Grading: Grades are based on the point system. Each assignment is assigned a point value based on the difficulty and importance of the work. Homework and In-class work will be worth 35%, tests and quizzes 40%, projects 15%, and citizenship 10%.

Homework: Homework will be provided to the students several times per week so as to maximize the time that we have in class for reflection and higher-order thinking activities. Students are expected to use complete sentences, proper grammar and correct spelling in every written performance. It is imperative that students complete their work as it will be graded for timeliness, completeness and effort, not necessarily factual perfection.

Late work: Late work will be marked down absent compelling circumstances.

Projects: We will complete several small projects, as well as a few large projects, throughout the year. Long-term projects will be assigned at least three weeks before the due date. It is the student's responsibility to turn in the long-term project before the due date if he or she will not be at school the day the project is due.

The Peace Project: All middle school students will participate in St. Cletus' celebration of the International Day of Peace on September 21. Each class will be asked to contribute to the celebration. The 6th grade students will take an in-depth look at nonviolence, its goals and rationale, and how it became the philosophy of the civil rights movement through in-class lessons. Their project will then be to create paper peace cranes and share them among our school and larger community to share the ideas of peace.

Organization: Students should keep all assignments in their social studies folders and bring them to class each day. Students should not throw anything away unless instructed by the teacher. We will organize our unit binders after the end of each unit of study. Students will receive a homework grade for their unit binder organization.

Citizenship: It is of the utmost importance to create a classroom in which students feel safe in taking intellectual chances. Therefore, I expect that all students will respect and support each other as students participate in class discussions and work through issues related to class lessons. My hope is that all students will receive full points each trimester. However, I will not hesitate to mark down points for unkind, uncooperative, and/or inappropriate engagements during class discussions, group projects, and individual presentations.

Cheating, copying and plagiarizing are forms of dishonesty. Students caught copying will receive a zero for the assignment or test. Allowing someone to copy your completed paper will result in a zero for you as well. Do not copy directly from the Internet source and try to turn it in as your own work. Changing one or two words from an Internet source is still plagiarism. Read the information, process the information, and then rewrite the information in your own words. Students who plagiarize receive a failing grade for that assignment.
